

Bible Manual: An Introduction to the Study of Scripture History With Analyses of the Books of the Bible (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Bible Manual: An Introduction to the Study of Scripture History With Analyses of the Books of the Bible¹. The Book of Genesis contains principally the family records of the Hebrew Patriarchs, to whom the promise of a Deliverer, originally given to Eve, was renewed. It is rather a series of biographies than a history. The preface to the Bible (Gen. i.-ii. 3) contains a brief account of the creation of the universe by God, and of mans high position, as king of every living thing on earth. The inspired writer then proceeds to the covenant made with Adam, his honour and fall. Sentence was passed upon him; but the prospect of deliverance from it was held out. The division of the human race into the families of Cain and Seth, their different characters and fortunes, form the next part of the book. Every kind of wickedness resulted from the union of these families in course of time; and, with the exception of eight persons, the whole race was at last swept away by a flood.² The tree of life, and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, which the Creator planted in Eden, were sacraments of the covenant made with Adam by God.
