

Sermons: Chiefly Occasional (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Sermons: Chiefly Occasional

The intended publication of this volume was announced in the prefatory advertisement to the volume of Practical Sermons by the same author which has recently been published. These sermons are Occasional. Most of them were delivered on public occasions. Some of them were first printed many years since, and have been long out of print. Those which relate to the history of the parish with which the author is connected, were printed for the use of the parish, and were not published. This circumstance will account for the minuteness of detail in the sermons and the notes appended to them. Additions have been made to several of them since they were first printed. In the notes to the Sermon on Gospel Preaching will be found some thoughts on Foreordination which may, perhaps, afford satisfaction to those readers whose minds may have been perplexed on this difficult subject. The fact that the sermons were originally published separately will account for the repetitions in the notes. In reading the notes, the reader must keep in mind the time of the first publication, in order to fix the date of the facts recorded.
