Not illustrated. 1892 Excerpt: ...it is believed that $100 an acre would be a very conservative estimate as the average value per acre of the owned and leased oil lands in Pennsylvania. At this figure the value of these lands would be $87,339,900, instead of $27,184,857. The number of acres of land held as oil territory in the Pennsylvania and New York oil districts, together with the total value of the same and the value per acre, are as follows: Statistics of land held at oil territory in the Pennsylvania and New York oil districts in 1889. The total capital invested in the production of crude petroleum in Pennsylvania and New York, outside of that invested in lands, amounted in 1889 to $62,377,151. Of this, $55,936,194 was invested in wells, including rigs, wells proper, engines, boilers, casings, etc.; $1,327,614 in tanks; $7,255 in tank cars owned by the producers, but not including those owned by transportation companies; $1,268,928 in pipe lines at wells, but not including the lines owned by the pipe-line transportation companies; $440,305 in oil in stock at wells, and $3,390,855 in other property. One or two of these amounts demand some explanation. It should be distinctly noted that the value of tank cars and pipe lines given above does not include in any case the value of these properties owned by the various pipe-line and other transportation companies, but only the properties of the several kinds mentioned that were actually a part of the well outfit. The total value of the wells, that is, rigs, wells proper, engines, boilers, and other apparatus, not including tanks, tank cars, or pipe lines, was $55,930,114. On the basis of 31,708 producing wells, this would give an average value of $ 1,701 per well. The average value of the wells in each district,
